no prep & min prep

Clinical Application of No-Prep and Minimal-Prep Veneers

From diagnosis to cementation

Two days in Kuala Lumpur with Dr. Youngmin Park

THE COURSE

Everyone wants no-prep. Not every tooth can have it.

The request arrives already decided. The patient has seen the before-and-afters and wants the version where nothing is drilled. You know that on some of those teeth a no-prep veneer will sit proud, catch plaque at the margin and read as a fingernail stuck to enamel.

The skill is not the preparation. It is knowing which of the two you are looking at — and being able to say so to the patient, with a reason, before anything is irreversible.

WHO THIS IS FOR

Registered dentists who already restore anterior teeth

You should be comfortable with your adhesive protocol. The course starts at the decision, not at bonding fundamentals.

THE DECISION

What you will be choosing between

Each option is taught with its indication, its limits, and the case in which it is the wrong answer.

No prep

No enamel removed. The veneer is additive, and the tooth has to have room for it.

Minimal prep

0.2–0.4 mm within enamel, to make space without reaching dentine.

Conventional prep

Cut on Day 2 for contrast, so the comparison is yours to make.

Enameloplasty

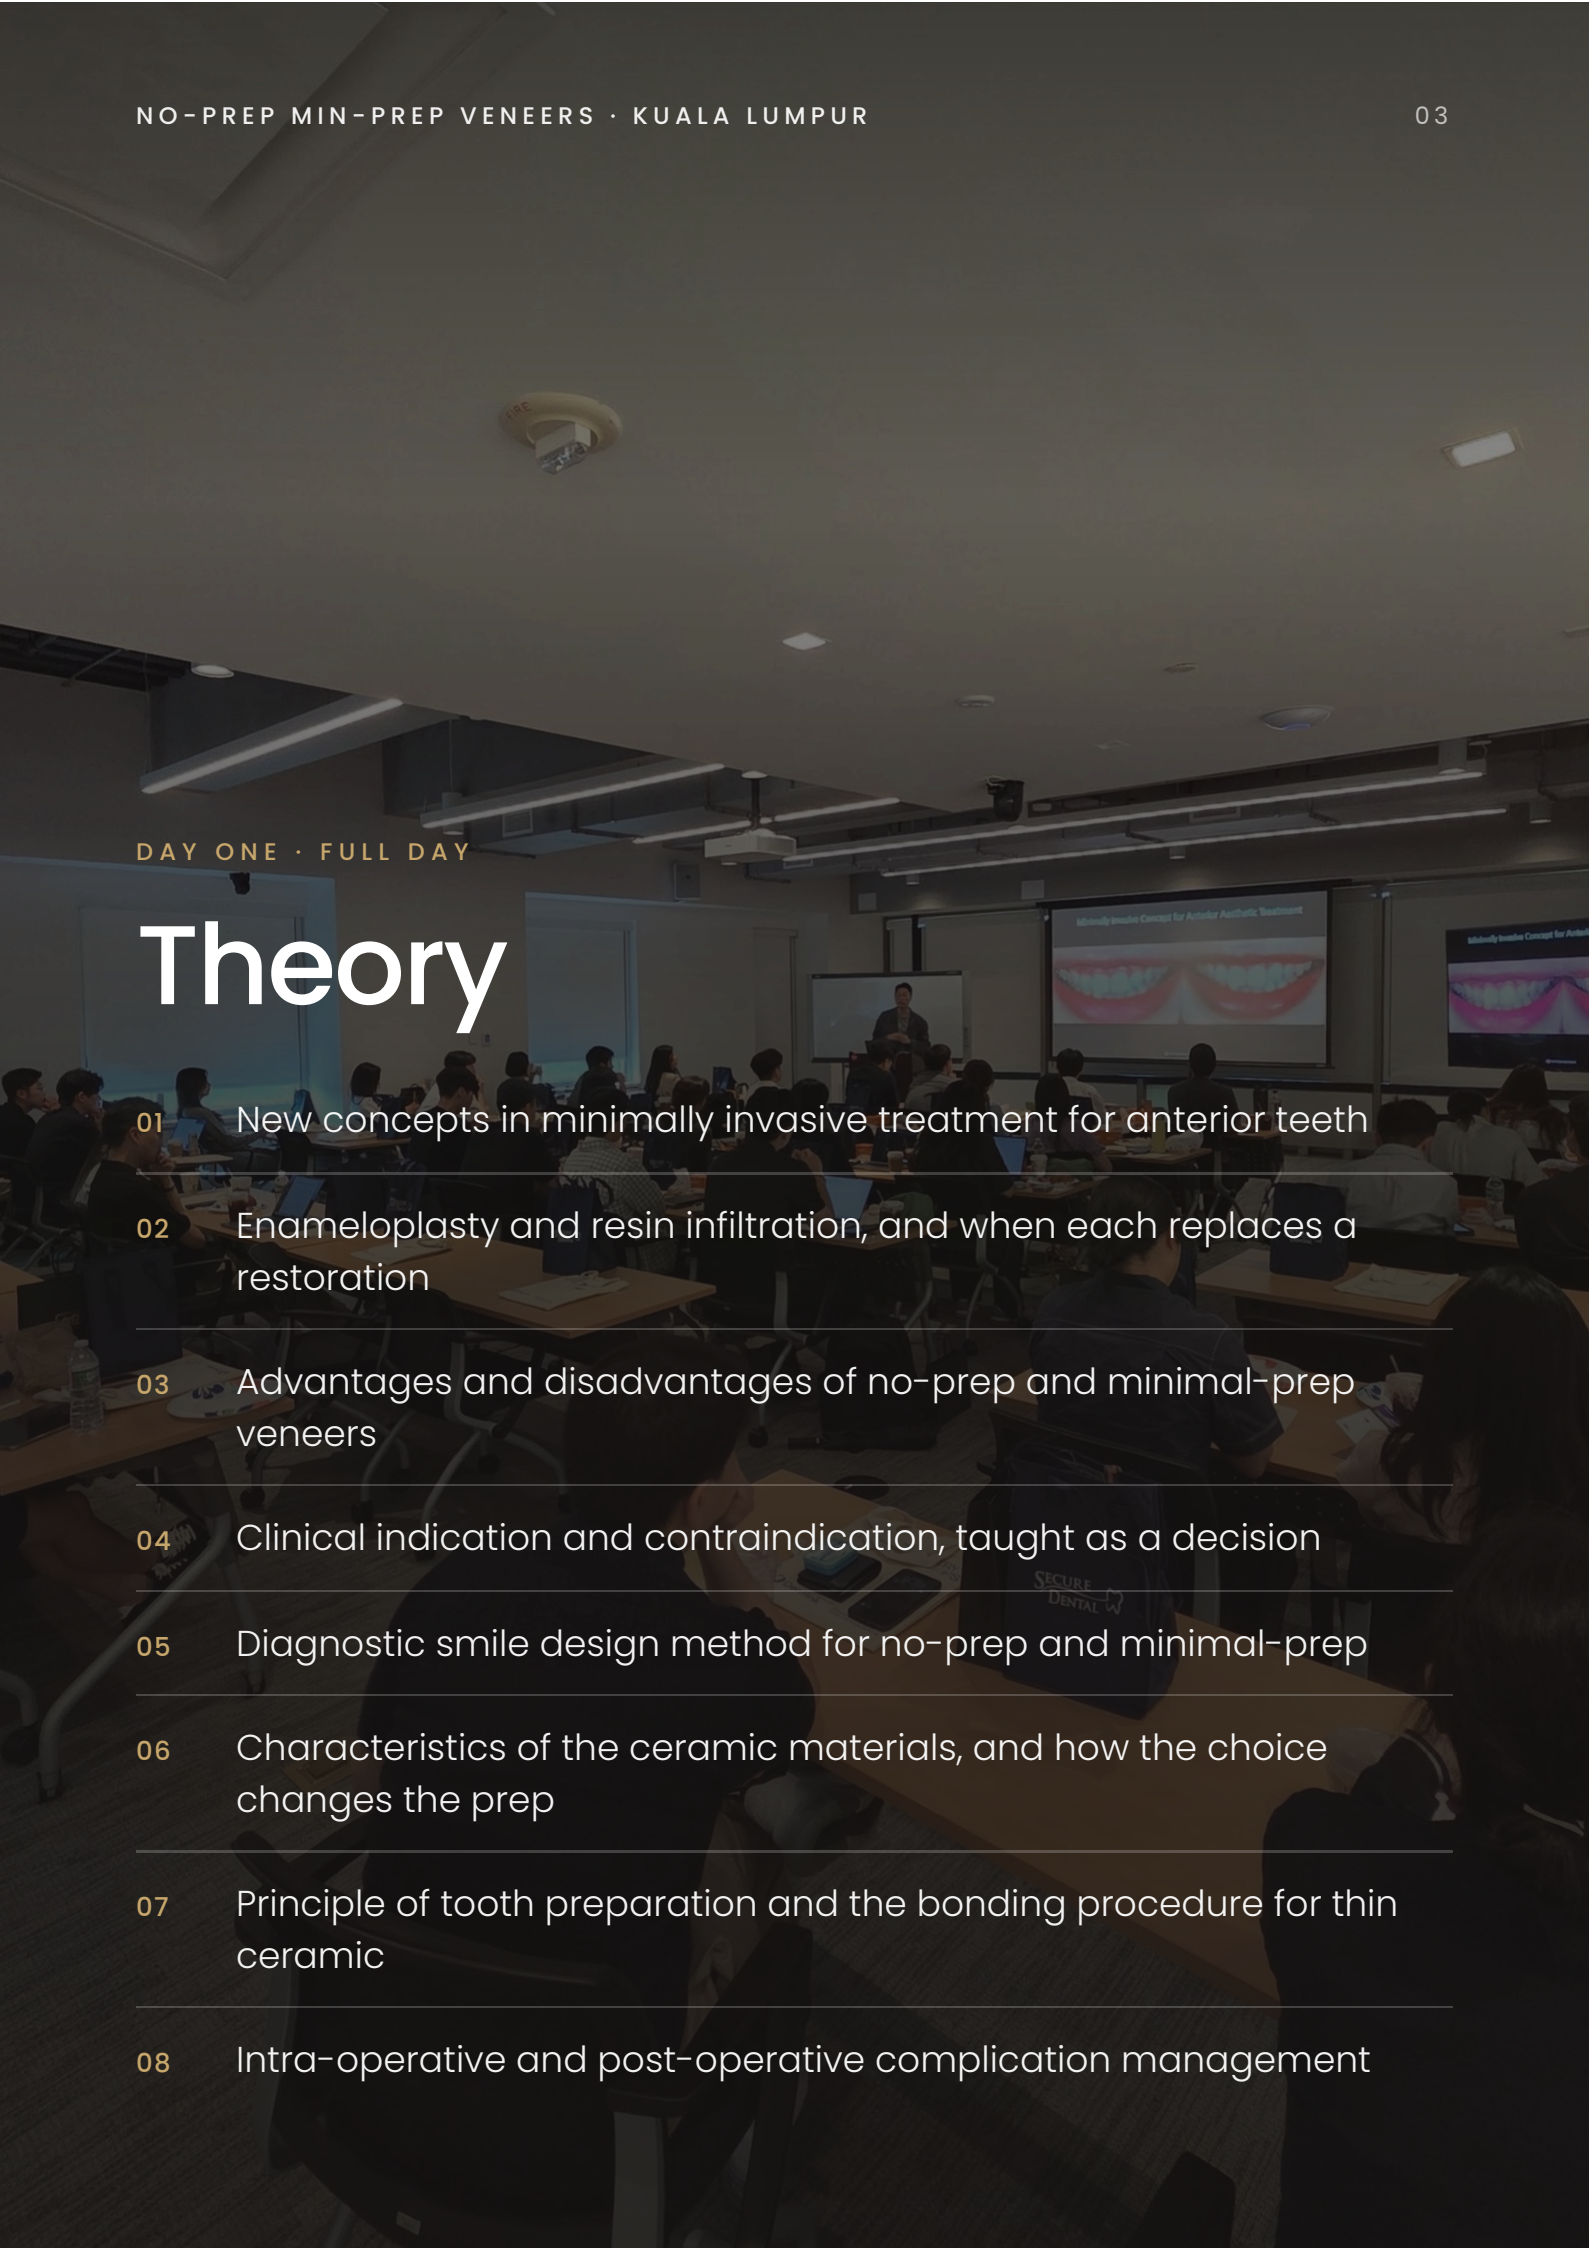

Reshaping alone, where no restoration is warranted at all.

Resin infiltration

Where the problem is colour in the surface, not form.

No treatment

Stated as an option, because sometimes it is the right one.

DAY ONE · FULL DAY

Theory

01 New concepts in minimally invasive treatment for anterior teeth

02 Enameloplasty and resin infiltration, and when each replaces a restoration

03 Advantages and disadvantages of no-prep and minimal-prep veneers

04 Clinical indication and contraindication, taught as a decision

05 Diagnostic smile design method for no-prep and minimal-prep

06 Characteristics of the ceramic materials, and how the choice changes the prep

07 Principle of tooth preparation and the bonding procedure for thin ceramic

08 Intra-operative and post-operative complication management

DAY TWO · FULL DAY

Hands-on

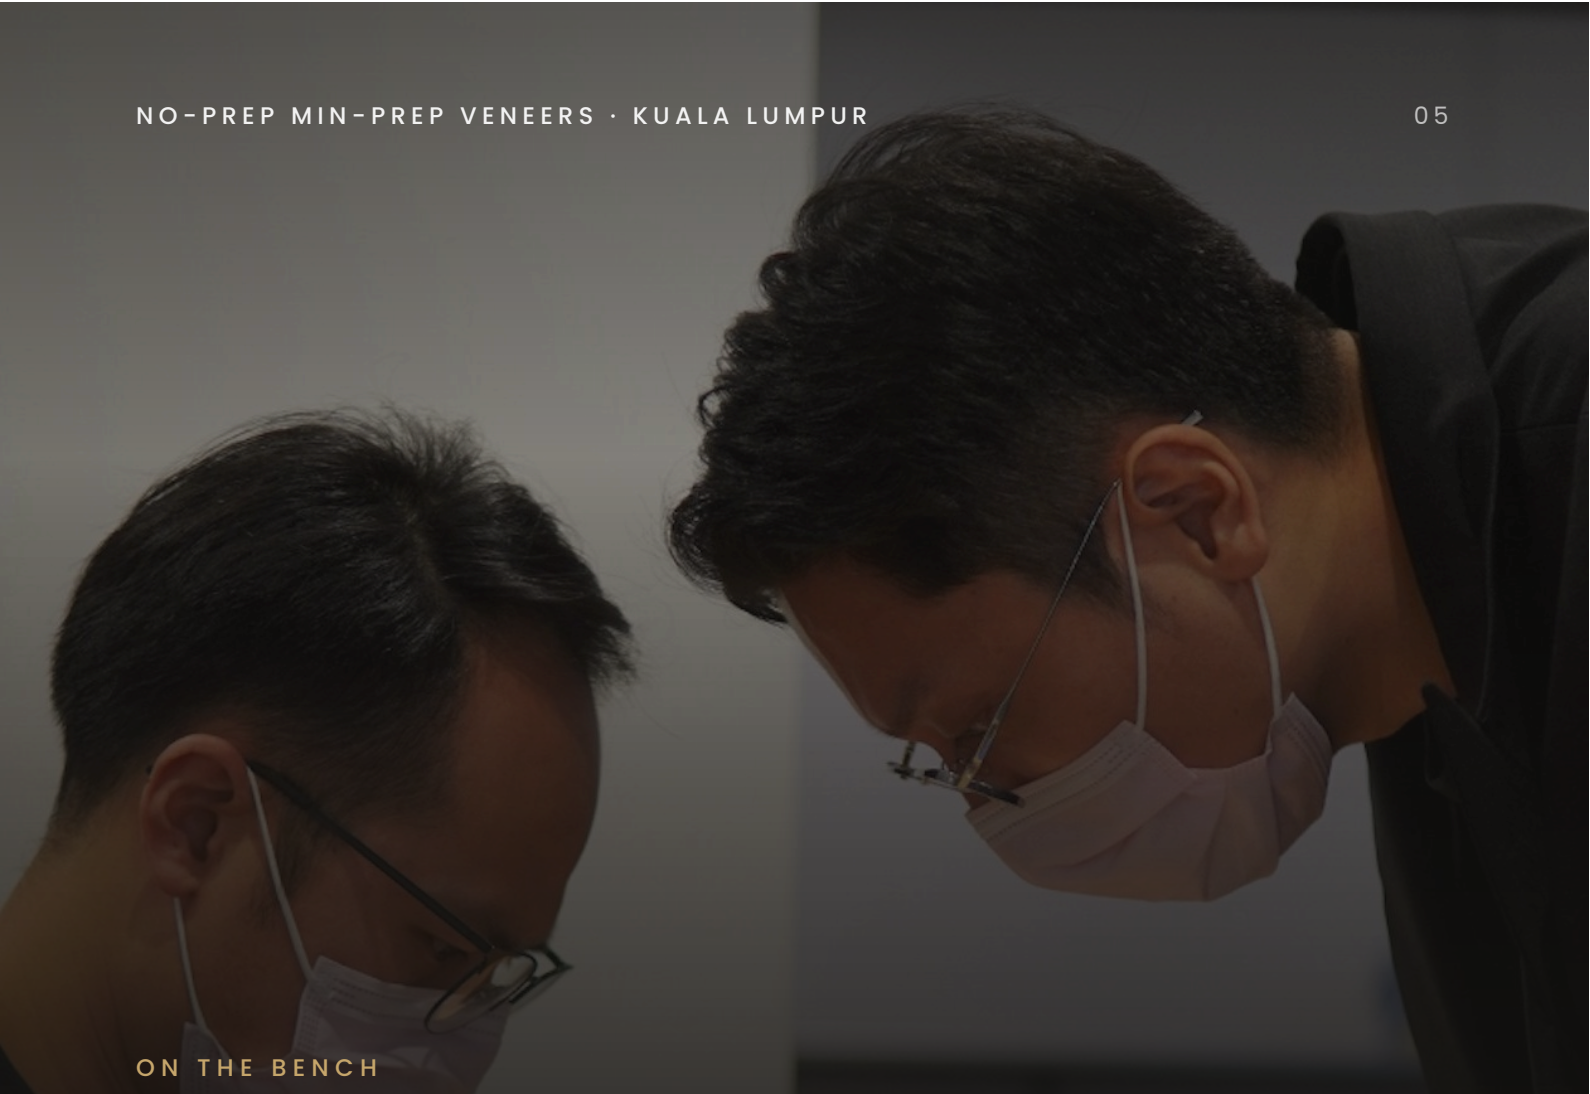

Full Masterclass participants work at their own bench with a handpiece and models. Lecture + Observation participants follow each preparation from the stage, on screen.

01 Diagnostic smile design, worked on the model

02 No-prep and minimal-prep veneer preparation

03 Conventional veneer preparation, cut for contrast

04 Temporisation and cementation of veneers

ON THE BENCH

What is provided, what to bring

25 hands-on seats. Everything below is per Full Masterclass participant.

PROVIDED

Models and dies

Prepared for the four exercises.

PROVIDED

Basic instruments

Plus a bur kit that is yours to keep.

BRING

Your own loupes

Recommended — the margins are shallow and you will want the magnification you are used to.

SEATS

25 hands-on places

100 lecture places are available separately.
